

HRI 2018 IN REVIEW

Another record year of impact in Haiti and Guatemala. Despite many challenges on the ground, including heavy social and political unrest, institutional strikes, and road blockades, together, we were able to make real headway for children and families facing great adversity. The generosity of our supporters and the exceptional collaboration of our staff and partners allowed HRI programs to not only expand by reaching more people and communities in need, but also to address root problems in new and sustainable ways that work to improve the future. Stay tuned for more updates in your 2018 Annual Report.
